AWS Will Give November Dance

The Associated Women have announced that the Thanksgiving Formal will be held on Wednesday night, Nov. 21, the eve of Thanksgiving. The place of the dance will be announced soon by the AWS committee.

Committee chairmen were asked to work on plans for the dance at the last AWS meeting and were instructed to select their own committee members.

Darlene Hatcher was appointed chairman of the advertising committee, while Sonja Olson will have charge of tickets. Laura Sullivan will handle decorations, Diana Davila will take care of programs. Gene Marshall is chairman of the committee for selecting a band, Betty Anderson will take care of food and Cherry O'Bannon has clean-up. These committees are working together under the direction of the AWS social chairman, Bunny Fulton.

June Marshall, chairman of the band committee, reported to Mrs. Tappler that Wayne McEuffin's band was available on Nov. 17.

No plans have been made public as yet concerning decorations, programs or refreshments.

Soil Turning Commences Campus Construction

Ground has been broken for CBC's new shop buildings.

Construction officially began Monday after the first shovel full of dirt was turned on the new "campus." Pearl Wana-maker, state superintendent of public instruction, was the honored guest and spoke on the value of a junior college in this area. Herman Jaeger, superintendent of the Pasco schools, commented that a new junior college for this area was being considered as long as ten years ago.

Mayor Custer of Pasco, who also spoke, credited Represent-the title to the land, which is roughly worth $1,000 an acre.

The vocational building program will consist of buildings 80 by 420 feet, which will cover approximately 38,000 square feet. The total cost of the new construction will be around $474,118.

Lyle Neff, Pasco School Board president, had the honor of turning the first shovel full of dirt with a specially prepared shovel having "CBC" lettered on it.

Various contracts were awarded to the following firms: general contract to Chuck Mardis for $294,000; plumbing contract to J. P. Head for $121,000; and electrical contract to Gordon A. Smith for $59,000.

Transportation to the new site for the ceremony was provided by school buses with some 300 students attending.

Bob Hamrick Edits Annual

Under the supervision of newly elected editor Bob Hamrick, work is proceeding on the second edition of the CBC annual Neaonia. Last year the staff named the yearbook the Neaonia, an Indian word meaning "Great mountain that looks over all," because they were looking forward to the permanent CBC campus which will be on a knoll.

Tom Burnside has been chosen as associate editor; Jackie Reitan, assistant advertising and sales; Harold Clark, advertising and sales manager.

Others on the staff are Lela Hooper, Neal Knighton, Robert Booth, Warren Hyslop, Cherry O'Bannon, Roger Conrad, Wanda Knannlein, Laura Sullivan, Lou Ann Euhans, Robert Kolb, Darlene Hatcher, Anne Fulton, Helen Haag, Claudine Downs, Lawrence Hogan, Diana Davila, J. E. Fultz.

Mr. Allen Hansen is the annual advisor.

Balance Of New CBC Buildings Now Dependent On State

The first hurdle in the acquisition of funds for the new academic buildings for Columbia Basin College was passed last Tuesday when the public voted in the district bond issue. The remaining 80 per cent will be decided in the next meeting of the state legislature.

This bond issue contains a proposal for the issuance of $575,000 for improvements in the Pasco school district, of which Columbia Basin College will receive first consideration. Approval of the ballot issue will also provide eligibility for qualification of matching state funds.

Pasco school superintendent Herman Jaeger stated, "With continued increase in assessed valuation, passage of the bond issue will result in no increase of taxation."

The proposed building program will allot $235,000 of local funds in addition to $940,000 in matching funds. The sum is expected to total $1,175,000 by September of next year.

Another $235,000 building program for CBC will be proposed in September of 1958, including $65,000 local and $260,000 state funds.

This resolution was passed at a school board meeting of the Pasco school district a few months ago. In the second section of the bill, the purpose of the bond, as far as the college is concerned, read as the constructing and equipping "complete junior college, buildings, with classroom, lunchroom, gymnasium, and other necessary rooms and facilities, on the present junior college

Political Class Forms 2 Parties, Invite Speakers

Republican or Democrat — what's the difference — there's a lot of difference if you are a member of the Political Science Class at CBC.

Those declaring their affiliations with the Republicans are called the Young Republicans of CBC; whereas their opponents are known as the Young Democrats.

"This division is a great aid in political education," stated Mr. Oberst. "Each issue must be viewed, and discussed from both sides of the political fence."

The Young Democrats, headed by Dick Griffin, had as their first guest speaker Rep. Don Magnuson, who visited the class week before last.

Although Magnuson was in the Tri-Cities on a campaign tour at the time, his lecture was of a non-political nature. He spoke on the functions of the U. S. Government and his duties as a member of the House Appropriations Committee.

The Congressman's visit was instigated by the Young Democrats.

The following week the classes heard Mr. Kermit McKay, candidate for the state senate. Mr. McKay's speech was also of a non-political nature. He discussed the steps involved in the passing of a piece of legislation. McKay's appearance was sponsored by the Young Republicans.

Editor Comments On Program

Recently there has been a great deal of controversy, in the local newspapers as well as from the academic students at the college, concerning the construction of the vocational buildings before the academic.

"I don't think that the word vocational should be linked with college."

"Sure, I can see the problem at hand, but the needs of the academic students are greater because there are more of them."

These are some of the remarks which have been called to my attention. In an attempt to clarify this matter, I will say this:

The majority of the people in the Tri-City area, students and residents, seem to think that the plans for the academic side are being shoved aside and all the attention being given to the vocational end of the picture, due to the fact that our director himself is a vocational leader in this state and has been for a number of years. This is not true!

Mr. Coney and his staff, as well as all the other board members, have been and still are working hard, aiming to create an institution with balanced courses, both academic and vocational. I am sure that they do not intend to over-emphasize either type of training. As to the over-emphasizing on the vocational side, a glance at our enrollment, two-thirds of which are academic students, will show you that this concept is indeed biased, for there have been many provisions made to accomodate the needs of these students.

There are several reasons why the vocational buildings are being constructed first.

As of now, the seven vocational buildings at the college are spread all over the area, increasing considerably both heating and maintenance costs. The building that we are now using for academic purposes is, I grant you, far from the best; however, it is much better than the ones which house the various shops.

Then too, there would not have been sufficient funds to complete an academic unit. If only one or two buildings were built, it would create a problem of students commuting back and forth between the new buildings and the old, which would undoubtedly lead to a great deal of confusion and inconvenience.

Let me again reassure you that our director, the school board, and all people concerned are working hard to the attainment of a well-balanced program, and there is no doubt in my mind that with all the time and effort spent by these men and women, their goal will certainly be achieved in the near future.

New Professor Teaches History

C.B.C.'s most recent addition to the staff is Mr. Charles Valencich, who is teaching several history courses here.

Mr. Valencich received his Bachelor's degree from Colorado State College of Education in Greeley, Colo. After this he traveled to the University of Southern California where he obtained his Master's degree. At the present time he is working on his Doctor's degree, needing 14 more units to qualify.

He has had 11 years of teaching experience, which include grade school, high school, and administrative work.

Having previously been living in Compton, Calif., Mr. Valencich is spending his first year in Pasco. Prior to his present move to C.B.C., he was teaching the eighth grade in Pasco junior high.

Mr. Valencich is the father of four children, ranging from six months old to junior high level.

When asked his opinion of C.B.C., he stated, "I'm glad I'm here."

Student Gripes

Dear Editor,

It seems to me that the student body of this college is a little lazy and lacks something in the way of spirit. At a recent assembly when our cheerleader tried to get some noise out of the people present, you could hear a pin drop.

Also I have found that the students expect everything on a gold platter. When the thought of a homecoming was brought up, some said it would be nice, let's have one, but who would have to do the work. Others said that there would be no one to come home for it.

It all boils down to the one simple thing. Everyone wants activities but nobody wants to do the work. There are a lot of activities planned, and if the cooperation is the same as it has been, these will go into the flop section of our history.

There is a great opportunity for students to establish some traditions and help make Columbia Basin College a better school to attend. I think it's about time the student body as a student body got the lead out of ... and did some work.

College Singers Serenade Soon

Mr. Terry Crabb, music teacher at Pasco high school and here at Columbia Basin College, has formed a student quartet.

The members of the quartet have had previous experience. The first tenor is Neil Knighten, second tenor is Arvon Curtiz, baritone is Dan Dixon, and bass is Morris Mack.

The quartet holds practice sessions, which usually meet on Mondays and Wednesdays in room seven at Columbia Basin College. The songs sung by the quartet are a mixture of popular music and well known standards.

Famous Archaeologist Speaks At First Program Of Series

An internationally famous explorer-archaeologist, Dr. Helmut de Terra, will be at the Pasco high auditorium, Nov. 14, to present the first program in a lecture series, sponsored by C.B.C.

Students will be admitted with their A.S.B. cards, and tickets for the public will be $5.00 for the four lecture series. Tickets for a single lecture will be $1.50, except for that of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, which will be $2.50.

Faculty Members Attend Meeting At U. Of Wash.

October 26 and 27 saw all CBC faculty members attending a workshop held in the student union building at the University of Washington.

Recognition of the growth of colleges and the problems facing them, brought about this workshop. Dr. B. Lamar Johnson, Professor of Higher Education at U.C.L.A., discussed the public junior college and also the changes taking place in the patterns of higher education.

One of the problems that was fully discussed was that of transferring junior college students to state schools. Coordination is needed mostly in the liberal arts and pre-professional fields. Problems were discussed in sectional meeting, the teachers having a choice of which one to attend.

The Washington Association of Community Junior Colleges sponsored this workshop. All junior colleges in Washington were represented to discuss any problems brought up.

Because of this workshop there were no classes at C.B.C. on Oct. 26. The faculty members were free to attend the U.W. vs. Calif. football game on Saturday afternoon.

This is the first year Columbia Basin College has had a quartet. Mr. Crabb and the members of the quartet rehearsed for the first time together at the beginning of this month.

The quartet expects to give its first public performance on November 7, at the Pasco high school auditorium, for the REA Convention.

of a human creature estimated to be 10,000,000 years

The distinguished departed for Italy early Spring of 1956 to join of Swiss, American and colleagues to hunt in region between Gros-Pisa for the remains of creature known to paleontologists as Oreopithecus. Only six fragments of such have previously been recovered and are now scattered in various Italian museums. Recently they were thought to belong to a long-extinct ape. Then, in March, Dr. de Terra and a scientist, Dr. Johannes, announced that they belonged to the earliest ancestor of man who is believed to have lived ten million ago.

This startling hypothesis said to challenge Darwin's theory that man and apes have a common ancestor. If established, the new indicates that a being more able as a man existed at an earlier date than any hitherto imagined. It is also that man might have been able to differentiate from ever common ancestor with the apes—if such a creature ever existed probably between 50 and 70 million ago.

As an explorer and scientist, Dr. de Terra is internationally known for his geological and archaeological researches in lands as widely separated as the Himalayas, Tibet, Java, Spain as well as Mexico. Born in Germany of a family that was Huguenot, he remembered as a boy in Marburg, Germany, considerable time digging things. "The mountains there," he recalls, "were covered with Roman and Bronze Age graves. I grew up surrounded by the ruins of the past."

He resolved to become a geologist and studied the subject at the University of Munich, where he earned his doctorate. In 1927 the Museum sent him on an expedition to Central Asia. Two years later, he came to America to live and lecture on Asian geology at Yale, and the University of Chicago. He also became a research associate for the Geological Institution of Washington.

Dr. de Terra became an American citizen in 1931 and went to Java and Burma under Harvard-Philosophical Academy of Natural Sciences Carnegie Institution. During the war years, he was a map specialist for the United States Geographic Board.

Dr. de Terra has written numerous scientific monographs on his explorations and has contributed many articles to such national magazines as Life, Collier's, News, and Times Magazine, Scientific American and others.

Presently a Research Associate of Columbia University, he was in Spain on archaeological expeditions prior to his Italian trip. He went to Italy under the auspices of the American-Greek Foundation. He is a member of the Anthropological Research Association of Columbia University.

Yakima-Locals
In 19-19 Battle

The Columbia Basin College Hawks took advantage of a Yakima J. C. miscue and turned it into a touchdown as they gained a 19-19 tie with only 55 seconds in the game.

It was a hard fought contest on Yakima's mud-splattered Parkers Field as the Hawks scored two touchdowns in rapid succession in the first half.

Yakima scored and tied the score 13-13 before the half was over.

During the third quarter both teams were unable to go any where.

Yakima fumbled the opening kick-off and the Hawk's Bob Wilkes recovered on the Indian 19. Seven plays later Dale Miller dove over from the one for the touchdown. Bill Nearents kicked the extra point that put the locals ahead 7-0.

The Hawks then held the Indians on downs within their own ten yard line. From there it took only five plays, which was sparked by a 77-yard pass play to Dale Miller who scampered into the end zone.

Yakima took the kick-off and marched 59 yards on seven plays for its first touchdown of the game.

The second Valley touchdown came with less than four minutes later when Quarterback Bob Vachon darted 36 yards to tie the score 13-13.

In the fourth quarter the Indians recovered a Columbia Basin fumble on CBC three yard line and plowed over on the next play for the third Yakima touchdown. The kick for an extra point was wide.

With only 55 seconds left the Hawks recovered a fumble in the Yakima backfield.

Fullback Jim Gower then rushed into the end zone on the next play to tie the score 19-19.

The extra point try by Bill Nearents was less than a foot wide and the Hawks had to settle for a 19-19 stalemate.

Hawks Prepare All-out Drive

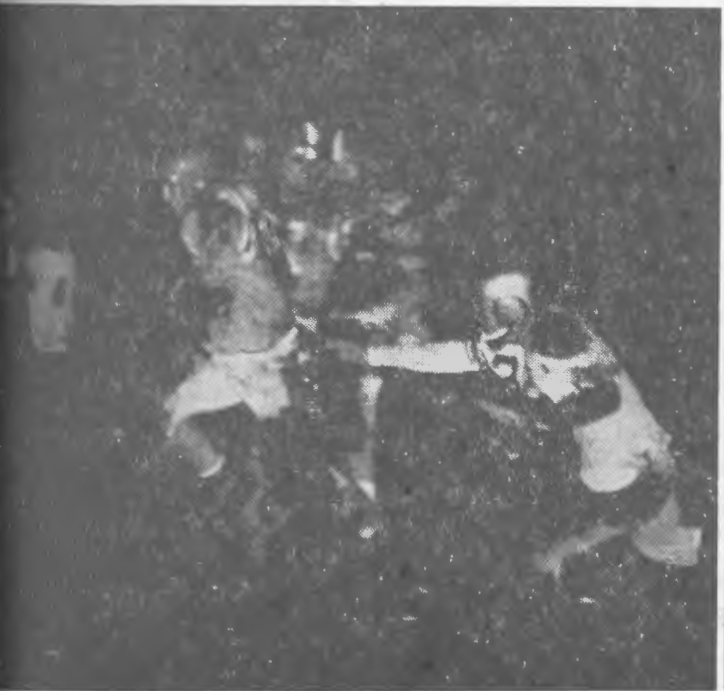

Saturday night the Columbia Basin College Hawks wind up their first season as members of the Washington State Junior College Football Conference as they travel to Grays Harbor for a battle with the Chokers.

Grays Harbor now boost a 4-1-1 record as they were the only team to beat Wenatchee Junior College has already won the conference championship.

Meanwhile the Hawks will be looking for victory number two as they dropped last Saturday's tilt to Centralia. The locals only victory came from Lower Columbia who now shares the cellar with them.

Elsewhere in the state, Wenatchee won the championship crown without much trouble as they downed Lower Columbia 19-12 Friday at Longview.

Hawks Win First One From Lower Columbia

The Columbia Basin College Hawks turned loose halfback Bob Wilkes in the final quarter of the C.B.C.-Lower Columbia game for a 20-12 victory, the first in the short history of the college.

Wilkes, who attended North Central high school in Spokane, shot through the Longview Colleges defenses for runs of 35 and 48 yards and threw a pass to Dick Lightfoot which was good for 20 yards. He had a hand in all of the Hawk's scoring.

The win was the first for the locals and coach Hal Akins, who have sweated out three defeats in their initial year of play in the Washington Junior College Football Conference.

While the victory brought happiness to the followers of Columbia Basin College, there was also sadness. Bob Nearents, who has been a great factor in the Hawk's line and a candidate for all-conference honors at center, suffered a broken ankle and will be out for the remainder of the season. Bob met with his misfortune during the second period of the game.

For the first time this season the Hawks found a pretty fair pass defense and held the Lower Columbia Red Devils to only four completion in 12 pass attempts.

Lower Columbia drew first blood in the third quarter as a result of a recovered fumble on the Hawk's 11 yard line. From there it took only one play to give the Longview club a 6-0 lead.

In the same period Chuck Wilkes cut loose with a 44 yard run which was stopped on the visitors one yard line. The Red Devil defensive unit dug in and held the Columbia Basin squad at that point.

On the opening play of the fourth quarter Bob Wilkes took a pitch-out around right end and streaked along the side lines for 35 yards and the Hawk's first score. The extra-point attempt was good and the locals went into the lead 7 to 6.

In the closing minutes of the contest, Bob Wilkes again took a pitch-out on an end around play, but this time he surprised the opposition as he shot a pass to Dick Lightfoot for a touchdown. The try for the extra-point was blocked and the score read CBC 13, LCJC 6.

After the kick-off the Hawks picked-off a Longview pass, but returned it two plays later on a fumble. The Red Devils then uncorked a pass to end Duane Gregg on the CBC 23, who quickly lateraled to Whitey Nelmark who scampered the remaining yardage for the T.D.

At this point the Hawks led 13 to 12.

Ben Wyriek of Richland returned the kick-off to the Longview 45 where Bob Wilkes slammed over the left guard, through the visitors secondary and across the goal line for the third and final touchdown of the game. Bob also added the point after touchdown, to bring the score to 20-12.

Birdmen Fall To Centralia

Centralia Junior College Trailblazers looked upon new horizons Saturday as they broke into the win column for the first time in nearly three years with an 18-13 victory over the Columbia Basin Hawks of Pasco.

Bob Wilkes started off the scoring for the locals as he took a pitchout from brother Chuck and scooted around right end for 85 yards and six points for the Hawk's. Bob had an open field and streaked all the way without any trouble at all. The try for the extra point was wide and the score remained 6-0.

In the third quarter the Hawks again busted into the scoring column on a march of 58 yards on the opening kick-off to score. Chuck Wilkes cut loose with a Hawk pass to Dick Lightfoot in the end zone which ran the score to 12-0.

Bob Wilkes then ran the extra point and Columbia Basin was out in the lead 13-0.

The Trailblazers punted to the Hawk's 15 yard line where the Columbia Basin squad fumbled and Centralia recovered. On the third play of the fourth quarter Jack Nehring passed to Robert Baker who quickly lateraled to Sherman Porter who sprinted over the goal line for the Blazers first touchdown.

After the kick-off the Hawk's looked to be moving in fine style but only to fumble a few plays later. The Centralia squad recovered on their own 46 yard line and eight plays later went over for their second touchdown. At this point the score read 13-12 in favor of the Hawks.

With only three minutes left the Trailblazers took possession on its own 17, but moved quickly down field on different pass plays. The Centralia quarter back then hit a receiver in the end zone for the winning tally, and a 18-13 victory.

Women Students Help School By Giving Time For Service

The Associated Women of the College, in their regular business meetings, have undertaken a number of projects designed to be of service to the school.

Dorothy Dahl is president of the group.

One of the AWS projects is the handling of the concessions at each of CBC's home football games. The concessions are handled by several committees, which vary from game to game. The committees include sales, food, and clean-up. Profits have been fairly good, according to Mrs. Stappler, the group's advisor, who pointed out that $49.16 was taken in at the October 20 game.

The women are also planning to usher at each of the four lectures in the ASB lecture series: for the talk of Dr. DeTerra, archaeologist, in November; the lecture of Norman Dyhrenfurth, Norwegian member of the Mt. Everest expedition, in January; the talk of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in February; and the lecture of Dr. Ralph Lapp, atomic scientist, in April.

The group will sponsor several dances during the school year: a Thanksgiving formal, a Sweetheart dance in February, a St. Pat's mixer in March, and a Spring formal, probably in April. They are also planning to put on a Christmas tea.

In addition to these projects, the AWS has appointed Sonja Olson, Angie McCullough, and Lela Hooper as chairmen of committees to keep the student lounge clean, to take charge of ushering for the lecture series, and to clean up the first aid room, respectively.

Secret File CBC

Ha, we fooled you; we're back. Since we got so many requests to get out of town we finally did, but in case you are wondering how this article reached C.B.C., we had it flown in by carrier pigeon.

If you will remember, in the last issue we finally cracked open the file, and all we found — "No, I can't tell them. No, I can't it's too embarrassing. Do I have to? Yes, Cobra!" Well, all we could find in the files was C.B.C.'s favorite record, "The Railroad Runs Through the Middle of the House," and an engineers cap.

This means that in order to have a column we must find something to put in the files every week. In order to do this our material will have to be derived from you, the student. So beware, because your name may appear and we are not held responsible, due to the fact that we suffer from epileptic fits and also suffer from attacks of temporary insanity, especially when we are writing this column?

This week's entries in the file find Jerry K. starring again in Sociology class, while Jim B., the fly killer, was at work killing his fourteenth fly of the day.

Chico V. was seen trying to get his money back out of our new Elvis Pelvis juke box. It seems that he got, "The Little Fairy Waltz," by Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians instead of his favorite, "Hound Dog."

Jim W. was also seen trying to get somebody else's money, and all he got for his trouble was to get his little pinkie stuck between, "I'll Never Let You Go," and "I'm Stuck With You."

This week's Secret File Merit badge for endeavoring to further scholastics, goes to Bruce's Lucky 5, where, we understand quite a bit of intense studying goes on . . . Jim Byron.

Students Travel To Yakima JC, Arrange Program

Sandy Howerter, social committee chairman, and Dick Griffin, Intercollegiate Commissioner, traveled to Yakima on Oct. 30, to arrange for an exchange assembly with Yakima Junior College.

They attended a student council meeting there. At the meeting they set a date for the assembly. Sandy and Dick say the assembly will be held about the same time as our first basketball game, which will be the first of December.

The purpose of the exchange assembly is to promote good will between the two schools; accordingly the assembly will be an exchange of talent. Other schools have held this type of assembly, but this will be the Columbia Basin College's first one.

Bloodmobile To Visit Here

On November 14 the American Red Cross Bloodmobile is scheduled to set up headquarters in the C.B.C. gym from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

Students and faculty members are requested to donate blood. Those who are willing to donate must fill out a donor pledge card.

All students under 21 years of age have to fill out a release card which must have their parents or guardians' signature on it. The release card must be returned to the office prior to the blood drawing.

Giving blood is a very simple process that takes only a few minutes of the donors time.

Students are urged to back this community project.

The college social committee, in charge of assemblies, is looking for talent from everybody.
